

ANNUAL LEE COUNTY FAIR STARTS WEDNESDAY

THIRD MEMBER ALLEGED GANG THIEVES TAKEN

Orville Henson Battled Deputy For Possession of Weapon

Orville Henson of this city was arrested Saturday evening about 8:30 at the Chessmore chicken farm seven miles south of Dixon on route 29 and after a battle with the deputy, making the arrest and farmers at the Henry Fisher farm was brought to the county jail, bound and bleeding. Henson is said to have attempted to disarm Deputy Sheriff Fred Washburn, who had been on duty at the Chessmore chicken farm and who had started for Dixon with the prisoner in his Ford coupe.

A bullet from the officer's automatic pistol shattered the glass in the rear of the coupe as both men battled for possession of the weapon in the barn yard at the Henry Fisher farm, where Washburn drove to have other deputies dispatched from the sheriff's office to drive Henson's car to Dixon. It was while seated in the coupe in the Fisher Washburn and his prisoner were barn yard that the battle began and finished.

Henson is said to have made a sudden dive, grasping the butt of the automatic pistol which he fought to obtain. It was during the struggle in the car that one shot was fired through the rear window. Washburn succeeded in retaining possession of the weapon when Henson was thrown against the side of the car breaking out another glass and then fell out of the door to the ground, the officer on top of him.

Another shot from the automatic attracted the attention of the members of the Fisher family and neighboring farmers. Mr. Fisher despite his age and physical condition, assisted the officer in holding Henson on the ground until assistance arrived. Later his hands were tied and when other deputies arrived he was brought to the county jail in Dixon. It is expected that charges will be filed in the County Court against Henson today.

Henson is the third man to be arrested in connection with the Chessmore poultry farm, following a raid made by Sheriff Miller and a force of deputies late Friday night. Several farmers visited the place Saturday afternoon and Sunday attempting to identify some of the hundreds of half-starved chickens on the farm. Mr. and Ben Utch, of Brooklyn township identified several chickens at the farm Saturday afternoon which bore special leg bands and other hens in the two coops taken from W. L. Chessmore's car as it was driven into the farm early Saturday morning were also identified.

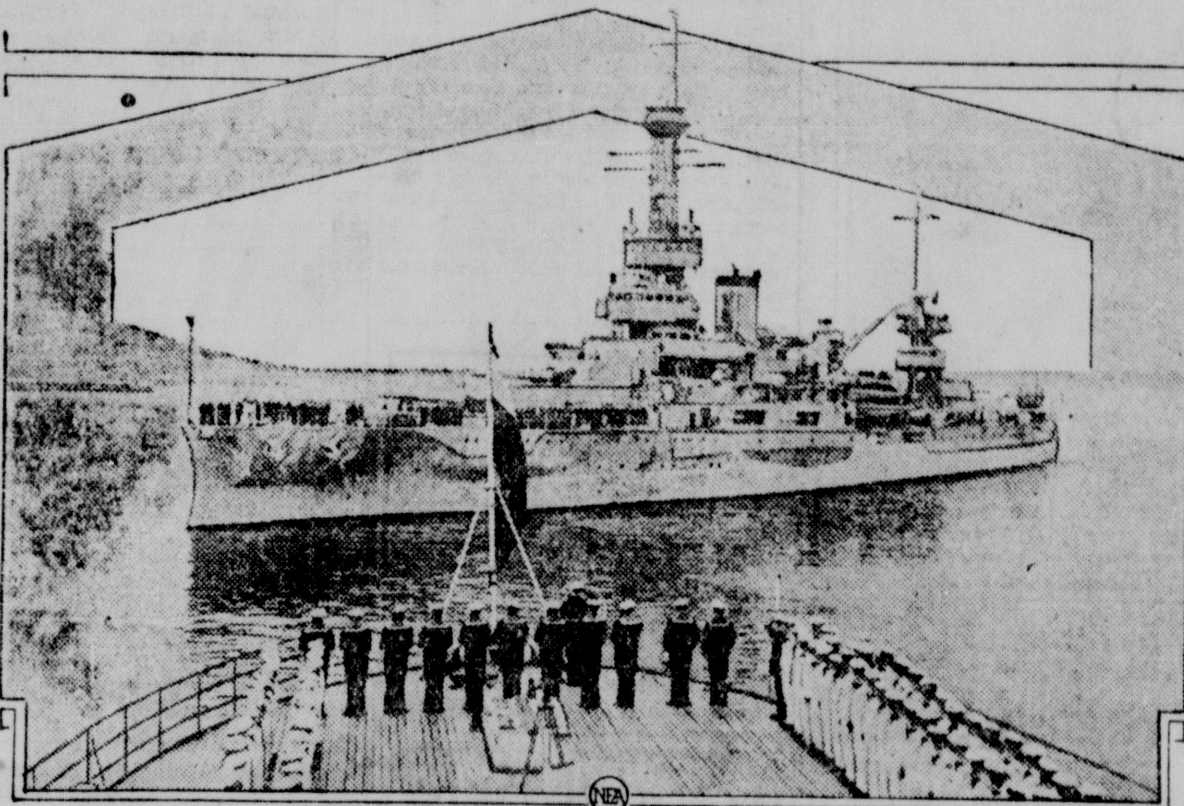

Found Stolen Poultry
Merritt Miller residing west of route 89 on the Amboy-Stirling road reported to Deputy Sheriff Fred Richardson yesterday having found 37 chickens which had been unloaded, presumably from an automobile early Saturday morning on a side road near his home. The flock consisted of 20 Barred Rock and 17 brown Leghorn hens, three of the number having died from suffocation. It was believed at the Sheriff's office that this consignment was also enroute to the Chessmore farm but was hauled away and dumped when the driver became suspicious of strange cars in the yard.

Chesmore Arraigned
Floyd Chessmore, tenant on the farm, was arraigned in Justice J. O. Shaulis court Saturday afternoon on a charge of possessing and selling intoxicating liquor. He entered a plea of guilty to the charges and was assessed a fine of $100 and costs. Sheriff Miller immediately served another warrant charging Chessmore with the possession of stolen property, his bond being fixed at $2,000 in default of which he was committed to the county jail.

PUBLIC OFFICIALS HASTEN TO EXPLAIN WHY NAMES APPEAR IN RECORDS OF SLAIN GANGSTER

Ramifications Of Zuta Organization Further Disclosed

Chicago, Aug. 18.—(UP)—The State's Attorney's office was ominously silent today as more public officials and politicians made haste to explain how their names happened to appear on checks and notes in the hands of Jack Zuta, assassinated business manager of the Moran-Aiello gang.

Municipal Judge Emanuel Eller appeared early at the office of Patrick Roche, State's Attorney's chief investigator. The judge explained that the $250 check in Zuta's cache that had been made out to him, probably was a campaign contribution.

"It evidently came to me during my campaign in 1922," said the judge. "I don't remember seeing it, for a number of checks came to me at the same time and I just ignored them all and sent them to the bank without looking at them."

Eller insisted he never had any dealings with Zuta.

"I was introduced to him once, perhaps, but I don't remember ever talking to him," said Eller, son of City Collector Morris Eller, boss of the "Bloody 20th" ward.

Roche had "nothing to say" after talking with Eller, the second Municipal Judge who has explained checks found in Zuta's safe deposit boxes last week. The other judge was Joseph W. Schulman, whose name appeared on a number of Zuta checks and notes.

The silence of the Chief Investigator was considered significant in view of the reconvening of the August grand jury.

Roche confirmed his remarks on the case to the declaration that "new developments" had been brought to light. Whether any of the evidence was in readiness for presentation to the grand jury, Roche refused to say.

In consequence of the investigation that unearthed the Zuta ledger account and his payment, men in high places were in precarious positions, Roche intimated.

Besides the two Municipal Judges who already have told their stories, the names of Charles V. Barrett, of the body.

ARRESTS RESULT FROM AUTO CRASH NORTH OF DIXON

Cars Driven By Dixon Young Lady And Two Strangers Collide

Miss Molly Duffy of this city narrowly escaped serious injury Saturday evening about 8 o'clock while driving on the state highway route 23 paving two miles north of Dixon when a Chrysler coupe belonging to Lee J. Karr of Bloomington, a road equipment salesman, and driven by W. F. Mannagie, a contractor of Mt. Morris, crashed into the side of Miss Duffy's Chevrolet coupe, almost tearing the fenders and running board from one side. The heavier car was coming south and Miss Duffy was driving north on the paving.

After striking the Duffy car, the heavier machine left the road, crashed into a slight ditch and then climbed a seven foot embankment where it struck a woven wire fence and turned completely over, pinning both of its passengers beneath it. That both men were not killed or seriously injured was miraculous. Both were considerably shaken up and sustained slight bruises. Miss Duffy was uninjured.

Men Were Fined
Karr was arrested shortly after the crash and taken to the county jail where he was locked up until Sunday morning when he was assessed a fine of $10 and costs imposed by Police Magistrate A. E. Simonson on a disorderly conduct charge. Mannagie, driver of the badly wrecked machine, disappeared from the scene after being extricated from beneath the wreckage. He was reported to have started through a corn field.

Sheriff Ward Miller arrested Mannagie Sunday morning when Miss Duffy recognized him at a local garage and he was assessed a fine of $50 and costs by Justice William Terrell on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. Arrangements were being made to have Miss Duffy's car repaired. The Bloomington machine was badly wrecked, the top being flattened and the body twisted. It was hauled to a local garage.

Unexpected Guests Cause Some Alarm

Deputies from the sheriff's office were dispatched to a residence south-east of the city Saturday night about 8 o'clock when a telephone call from neighbors stated that a home was being ransacked. Upon arrival, the officers found the house lighted and parties making themselves at home. Inquiry developed the fact that relatives from a distance had arrived in the absence of the family and finding an entrance, took possession of the house to await the arrival of their hosts. While the officers were at the house the hosts returned home and it required both deputies to escort them into their own house, so badly frightened were they upon finding the residence lighted and occupied and surrounded by officers.

Disabled Ship Had Been In Sinking Condition Many Hours

BULLETIN.
Auckland, New Zealand, Aug. 18.—(UP)—The steamship Ventura, with the rescued passengers and crew of the Tahiti aboard, is expected to make one stop before reaching San Francisco.

Advices received here today indicated that the Ventura's first port of call would be Pago Pago, Samoa.

Pago Pago, Samoa, Aug. 18.—(UP)—Aboard the Matson steamer Ventura the 300 persons, including 173 adult passengers and two infants who sailed from Wellington for San Francisco six days ago on the Tahiti of the Union Steamship Company, were safe today after many hours in which the disabled and water-filled ship was pounded by a strong-running sea.

The Ventura, speeding from the rescue toward Pago, had ended another heroic mission of the coral-reefed Southern Seas, and her Master, Capt. W. R. Meyer, wrote his version of the thrilling story.

"Ventura has taken all passengers and crew from Tahiti and abandoned vessel," was the message he handed his radio operator. "Ventura proceeding Pago Pago."

Thrilling Rescue.
For more than two days—since her propeller was lost and water poured into her holds—the Tahiti's crew had battled to keep her afloat while the Ventura's men sped their ship, under forced draught, to the rescue.

Since Friday morning the Tahiti had been disabled and drifting some 1,300 miles from Wellington and 500 or 600 miles south and east of Rarotonga of the Cook Islands group. Her starboard propeller was useless, the shaft broken, and water surged into her holds faster than the crew could pump it out.

Messages asking for assistance were followed by advices that the ship's condition was becoming momentarily more serious, and the Norwegian freighter Penbrin steamed to the scene last night.

In Clear Weather.
The weather was clear, however, and Captain Totten of the Tahiti decided to wait until dawn before attempting to transfer the passengers.

A message relayed by the warship Veronica said the crippled ship had developed a bad list and it was feared she would not last much longer.

The Ventura was sighted by the officers of the sinking ship at 7:45 A. M. and soon came alongside.

The Tahiti was listing heavily and the high seas made transfer of passengers dangerous when the starboard boats were lowered from the Tahiti.

Messages from the Ventura indicated that she had taken aboard passengers and crew and mail.

MORE SHOOTING ON STATE ROADS AROUND ROCKFORD

An Alleged Bodyguard Of Chicago Gangster Was Made Target

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 18.—(A. P.)—Elmer Whitley, reputed bodyguard for Tommy Abbott, dashed into the police station here early today with a story that attempts were being made to assassinate him.

He said an autoloader of men followed him for ten miles on the Beloit-Rockford road and fired from 12 to 15 shots at him. They were still firing, he said as they whizzed by the police station.

Whitley, William Sullivan and one other man were scheduled for a hearing today on charges of carrying concealed weapons. They were arrested last Thursday and released on bond.

ENGINEER SHOT

Chicago, Aug. 18.—(A. P.)—Harvey Feddermeyer, 36, a steam roller engineer, was shot in the abdomen by an unidentified assailant as he left his home early today.

According to the story told police, Feddermeyer had just left his wife, Helen, and their daughter, Elsie, 12, in the Feddermeyer home on North Kedzie Avenue when he saw his assailant in the vestibule.

"What do you want?", Feddermeyer asked the stranger, who answered by whipping out a gun and firing at the engineer.

Feddermeyer was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Police arrested Ill. Nelson, a cook in the Feddermeyer household, when it was learned that Feddermeyer had been shot on West Fulton Street, in the neighborhood of the woman's home.

The woman had several bruises on her face and hands, and police advanced the theory that she had shot Feddermeyer following a quarrel.

WIDOW OF STATE SENATOR JOYCE SAYS SHE RECEIVED ANONYMOUS 'PHONE CALLS BEFORE HE DIED

Chicago, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The story of Mrs. John T. Joyce that she received several anonymous telephone calls the night before her husband, a state Senator, died mysteriously, sent police on a search today for known enemies of the lawmaker.

Joyce said the calls started Friday afternoon and lasted until that evening. She was first warned that the Senator was to be shot, and after was told that he had been shot three times.

Senator Joyce died suddenly Saturday morning under circumstances that led his brother, Edward Joyce, to suggest that he might have been poisoned and prompted the coroner to order an inquest and have the vital organs examined.

Among those whom police sought to question regarding Joyce's death was Tommy Abbott, the Chicago gangster who was believed to have been the intended victim of a machine gun attack at Rockford, Ill., last week. Abbott was not wounded although a man standing near him was instantly killed and Abbott's car was hit several times.

Joyce appeared before a grand jury on election frauds last week and he was reported to have identified Abbott as one of the gunmen who invaded the Forty-second ward during the April primary.

COST OF LIVING DESCENDS

We have been worshipping the god of high prices and rising trends so long that it is with some difficulty that we adjust ourselves to descending tendencies. There is a bit of silver in the dark business cloud of which we hear complaint. Reduced cost of living is accompanying reduced days of labor, which is another term for lower wages.

Prices on cheaper grades of beef are said to average 12 cents a pound less in Philadelphia than in July of last year. Average in Chicago was 11 cents less. New York City dealers had not discovered that cattle prices and wholesale meat prices had been reduced until their attention was called to it by C. B. Denman of the federal farm board. He advised them that it was about time to pass on to consumers the drop in prices taken by the farmers and the packers. Thereafter New York City beef was 3 to 6 cents lower.

Kansas City, St. Louis, Fort Worth, St. Paul and smaller cities have reported to the board that reductions now are in effect, one chain management listing 9 cents a pound reduction on all grades of beef.

Bureau of labor statistics on 550 different commodities, with 100 as the basic figure for 1926 show 86.8 for June, 1930; 96.4 for June, 1929; 97.6 for June, 1928. With the same basic figure on metals and metal products, the comparative figure for June, 1930, is 95.4 and for bituminous coal, 88.2.

On the basis of these commodity reductions a man who worked 300 days in 1926 can lose forty days and still do as well as he did in 1926. If he worked 200 days he can lose four weeks. If he received $1 an hour, he can do as well on 87 cents an hour.

Preference of organized labor is to hold up the wage and to take fewer days of labor. It is possible, however, to take the lower wage at full time and come out at the same place so far as wages and cost of living are concerned. If prices are to ascend immediately, it is more advantageous to hold up the wage and take fewer hours, for hours can be redeemed more easily than wages.

If other lines now are under the same economic pressure that has forced down agriculture, coal metals, oil and textiles, a readjustment is ahead. Either the items mentioned must be brought up to the higher level or other lines must be reduced to their level. They constitute too large a part of industry to remain deflated and depressed at the expense of others. Without them there can be no general prosperity which is the national aim.

AN OLD LAW IS REPEALED.

The town council of Lowestoft, England, discovered the other day that their town had a law forbidding any male at a public bathing beach from coming within 100 yards of any female bather.

This law had been passed in 1854, in response to some bit of early-Victorian prudery. After enjoying a good laugh, the city fathers repeated it, and co-educational bathing parties at Lowestoft are now just as legal as they are anywhere else.

All of this, of course, is very amusing; but suppose that law had been discovered on the statute books of some American town. Would the city dads have had the courage to repeal it? Or would they have decided that to do so might conceivably offend some organized minority of the easily-shocked? Isn't it quite possible that they would simply have let the law remain a law, tipping off everybody, meanwhile, that no one needed to pay any attention to it?

At any rate, that's the way we do with most of our out-moded laws.

A Kansas newspaper is urging that an extra slice of bread be eaten to aid wheat consumption. Some men have more than accommodated since the business depression by taking a loaf.

You can't blame the fellow who lives next door to one for calling it the Sore Thumb golf course.

That Western Art connoisseur who recently removed the paint from a $400 canvas and uncovered an "Old Master" valued at $150,000 had good cause to say, "Things are not half as bad as they're painted these days."

One fact to keep in mind these hard times is that a small roll is often better than a loaf.

A London restaurant has installed telephones at tables. And now it's a problem to tell who the waiters are.

The view of Athens was a sight that thrilled each happy Tinytime. The rocky hill they stood upon towered high above the town. They stood and gazed an hour or so. Then Scouty said, "Come on, let's go. It won't be hard to reach the place 'cause we'll be traveling down."

"You're right," replied the Travel Man. "We'll get there quickly as we can, but you will find it further than you think it is my lad. The distance doesn't look like much, but we'll hike through large farms and such. The scenery's very pretty, though, and you all will be glad."

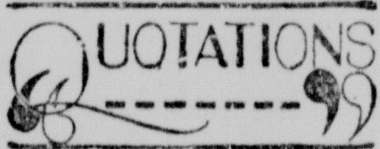

So down a road they hiked along and Clowzy soon broke into song. "We're heading now for Athens. It's a wondrous spot," sang he. "When we are there we'll stop to eat and that will be a welcome treat. And then we'll see the sights and there are lots of sights to see."

Far down the road they met a man and up to him the Tines ran. "Say, who are you?" cried Coppy. "I'm a shepherd," he replied. And then a flock of sheep came near and of the bunch they had no fear. It seemed they all felt safe when they were at their master's side.

The bunch reached Athens about noon and for the bunch 'twas none too soon. They all were strayed and promptly found a handy place to eat. They dined and then, when lunch was over, stepped out upon a hike once more. It wasn't long till Scouty cried, "Oh look! That's quite a feat."

"That is the Parthenon, my son. It seems repairing has been done," replied the wise old Travel Man. "It's many ages old. From other things is stands apart as wondrous thing in old Greek art." The Tines eyed the pillars which all seemed to stand out bold.

Daily Health Talk

HOT WEATHER PSYCHOLOGY
By SEALE HARRIS, M. D.
Professor Emeritus of Medicine, University of Alabama, Birmingham, Ala., Alabama

The attitude of mind has much to do with comfort during the summer. The philosopher who realizes that summer is a part of the year that must come and must be endured, however much discomfort it brings, is not disturbed by the heat but goes about his duties without complaining.

Walt Mason's philosophy is good. He said: "One should remember that hot weather is necessary to make prunes grow, and when we have a long hot dry spell, instead of worrying about the heat, we should thank God that the prune is safe." Likewise, we should remember that hot weather is necessary to produce cotton, corn, and other food and money crops that are the basis of our wealth and well-being.

When one has the attitude of mind that he must accept the inevitable hot weather in summer and that he must be a "good sport" and take what comes without complaining, he can stand the heat much better than he who whines and says "I just can't stand this hot weather." It is better to say, "I can stand hot weather as well as anyone else. I may not like it, but I can endure it as others are doing, and without whining."

It is good psychology not to talk of the heat, or to allow one's self to think about it, but follow the English slogan during the war of "business as usual," and attend to regular duties during the hot weather as a matter of course. We cannot regulate the weather for our comfort or convenience, and the more one worries about it, and the more frequently one consults the thermometer the harder it is to bear the heat. Get busy and forget it.

LONDON PHONE GIRLS SPEAK IN MANY TONGUES

London. — (U.P.) — "Allo, Paris, donnez moi Louvre quarentesept dix-neuf, sil vous plait."
"Was haben sie gesagt, Berlin?"
"Attention, Madrid, Londres esta listo."

"Hello, Bombay Central, put this call through to Burma, please."
"Tokyo? Ohio, banzi!"
Not a mixed grill of try-and-learn-it-yourself language lessons but a leaf from the diary of a telephone operator. London talks to almost everybody these days, only three and a half years after the first call from here to New York and with the extension of telephone service to Japan, South Africa, India, Australia, and New Zealand this city will become the hub of a telephone system encircling the earth.

Work already has been started on extension of service from Australia to New Zealand which will bring an additional 180,000 phones on to the international circuit.

Negotiations are in progress for a service to India which can start operation in a few months after the preliminary work is completed. Egypt can join the international link any time she feels like it and extensions to Palestine and Transjordan would be the next logical development.

In Berlin the Hufendun company is experimenting with a radio telephone service to Tokyo which means that London can "plug in" if the connection is permanently established. The German organization already has established service to South America and plans to install a transmitter in Nanking to enable Chinese to sit in braugartens and chat with the old folks at home.

When South Africa is brought into the worldwide hookup there will be approximately only 128,000 telephones in Asia, and a few thousands in Africa and Oceania outside the international telephonic alliance. The service from London around the world will be virtually complete in a few months. Even small isolated islands have lost that feeling of being distinctly out of touch with the rest of the world. The Channel Islands will be connected with the mainland by the end of the year. Already the Grecian Islands can call up Athens and Raratonga chats with Wellington.

At Height of the Egyptian Riots

Tumultuous scenes like this were enacted in the streets of Cairo, Egypt, as police charged mobs of rioting Wafdist sympathizers. Here you see uniformed officers making arrests after braving a barrage of stones hurled by young rebels. The riots were precipitated by the announcement that the Wafdist Senators and Deputies intended to force their way into the Parliament buildings and hold a session in defiance of King Fuad. Many persons were killed in hand-to-hand fighting.

The increasing habit of one part of the world wishing to talk to another part thousands of miles away is responsible for the fact that over 90 per cent of the world's telephones are connected with each other. It is estimated that civilization has produced some 34,000,000 transmitters and an equal number of receivers. If all the telephone wires in the world were laid end to end they would no doubt stretch for quite a way. But more important is the fact that London's future telephone operators will have to add Japanese and Indian to their linguistic accomplishments.

It is supposed that balsa is the lightest wood. It weighs about seven pounds to the square foot, or about half the weight of cork.

It has been stated that smoke causes an annual loss to the United States of over $5,000,000,000. The average cost to each city dweller due to soot from burning coal is estimated at about $15 a year.

GERMANY RANKS THIRD ON LIST OF U. S. TRADING

Highly Developed Export
Sales Organizations Play
Important Part

Washington.—(U. P.)—Highly developed local export sales organizations and in increasing number of branch factories have played an important part in the development of America's growing trade with Germany, now rated as our third largest world market.

In building up to an average annual trade of $470,000,000, American industries have perfected an efficient and highly organized distribution system in Germany. There are today about 1,500 American companies represented in the country, with which, a little more than 10 years ago, we were at war.

Altogether, American industries now maintain 79 branches in Germany, exclusive of German factories which have passed entirely into control of American interests, with several others scheduled for erection during 1930-31, according to reports received at the Commerce Department from its Berlin office.

American Subsidiaries in Germany also have been an important factor in developing this immense trade. Supplemented by a number of American firms maintaining offices in Germany, these subsidiaries distribute extensively practically the same lines of commodities sold in the United States.

American manufacturing in Germany is confined mainly to assembling and finishing imported products. The plants are largely centered in the neighborhood of a few large cities, although there has been a marked tendency lately to establish factories turning out bulky products on the Rhineland near the coal and steel industries and where the benefits of water transportation may be had.

Seventy five per cent of our trade with Germany consists of raw cotton, staple foodstuffs, raw materials, including grain, flour, petroleum, fats, and metals. The remainder is made up of a wide range of miscellaneous manufactured and semi-finished products, marketed throughout the country.

Irvington Is Attractive 6 Room House Of Stucco; Floor Plans Conveniently Arranged

The family who prefer the living room and dining room completely separated will be pleased with the Irvington which is illustrated in adjacent columns. A small reception hall lies between the two rooms in this design.

There are certain obvious advantages in this separation. The chance caller who waits in the living room until the family have finished the evening meal is not embarrassed for he remains in a room some distance away from the dining room.

The Irvington is a six room house with bath and breakfast room. It is a two story residence of stucco, thirty-two feet by twenty-seven feet six inches in dimensions, designed to be built on the ordinary size lot.

Economically Designed
The cost of building this home is not excessive and it can be constructed by the family with the average income.

Yet its design and appearance make a pretentious looking structure. The architect who planned the Irvington knew the value of the square house aside from the slight irregularities that accentuate architectural style; this house is a square one. Economy in space and materials are usually found with a house whose dimensions are nearly the same.

Charming Exterior
The sharply pitched roof of composition shingles, the broad window openings with their several units of sash, the studied use of face brick contrasting with the grey-white of the stucco, all work toward making the architectural design of the Irvington a most charming composition.

Of special interest is the face brick stoop with its ornamental iron rail and the broad front door with arched head and heavy plate glass panel. A curving concrete walk leads the way from the street to the entrance. Dwarf pines at either side of the stoop aid in creating a charming air of hominess.

Within the door is a small vestibule with tiled floor. An inner door prevents the entrance of a rush of cold air during winter months and aids in maintaining the interior of the house at an even heat.

Well Planned First Floor
The first floor of the Irvington is well-planned. To the left of the reception hall is the living room, well lighted and spacious. At the right is the dining room. A breakfast room and kitchen complete the rooms on this floor.

The large size of the living room will appeal to the home lover. It contains windows on three sides, thus assuring the owner ample light and plenty of fresh air.

The broad fireplace at the side of this room has a hearth of brick. The breast is a so of brick, the mantel being ample to contain a pair of vases or other ornaments. Wall brackets on either side have been selected to harmonize with the interior design of the room.

Since the living room is thirteen feet by twenty-two feet in dimensions, a use of a number of wall lights in addition to the center ceiling chandelier was necessary. Four electrical outlets allow the use of a number of floor lamps in various parts of the room.

Convenient Dining Room

The dining room is roughly eleven by thirteen feet in size, ample enough to contain the table, chairs and buffet. Three windows at the front and two at the side allow cross ventilation and plenty of sunshine.

A plaster arch separates the dining room from the passage leading to the kitchen. The passage is really an interior hall as off it is the staircase leading to the floor above. To the right is the breakfast nook, away from the kitchen odors, yet convenient for quick serving.

A small closet off this hall is convenient for the storage of brooms, mops, and other household necessities.

Carefully Arranged Kitchen

The housewife will be delighted with the kitchen for it has been arranged to save steps. At the right is the kitchen dresser, a most convenient array of cupboards and shelves, with four drawers also for the storage of kitchen knives and small utensils. At one side is space for the kitchen sink is located under the window at the rear wall. Across at one side is the gas range. Two hanging lights and a number of electrical outlets add to the convenience of the room.

A door at the left of the room leads to the service entry which has a stairs to the basement and a door to the service porch at the rear.

Basement is Large

Down in the basement which has a concrete floor over its entire area, are located the laundry, the drying room, the furnace and fuel rooms. A small room for fire wood and another for fruit are also located here.

These rooms are separated from each other, either by walls of concrete blocks or of wood. Thus the clothes in the drying room will never be dirtied by flying coal or ash dust. The rooms in the basement are all lighted by steel basement windows. The coal chute is steel.

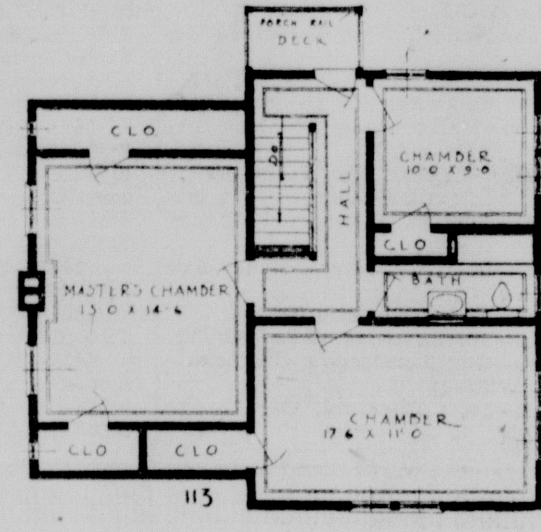

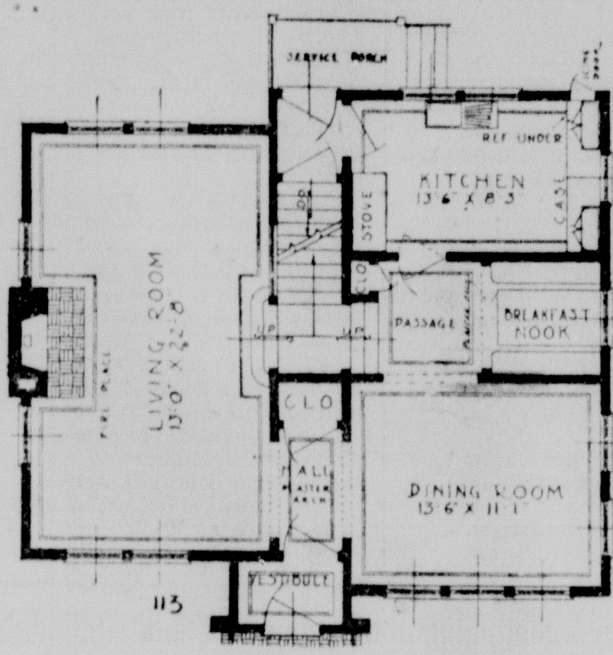

Three Chambers

Three chambers and a bath on the second floor with reference to the upper hall are well arranged. The chamber over the living room contains two closets each lighted by electricity. The other chambers are smaller but contain windows on two sides of the room, giving cross ventilation.

The bath is small, compactly arranged to take advantage of every inch of space. It contains side wall lights near the medicine closet, a built-in bath tub and a noiseless closet.

At the head of the stairs is a door leading to a small deck over the back porch. This deck allows the housewife to air the bed clothes and mattress outside when the weather is right.

Carnegie institute has authorized money for further exploration of Nevada's prehistoric caves. Prunes, a Colorado pack burro, was shot at the reputed age of 62 years because he could no longer eat.

CHOOSE AN EXTERIOR DESIGN THAT WILL REMAIN IN STYLE

English Houses Growing in Popularity

The home owner who chooses a house design that is bizarre or eccentric is running a chance of investing his money in a home that with the passing years becomes out of date and obsolete.

No matter how well arranged and convenient the interior of the home may be exterior is the basis of the judgment of strangers as to the desirability and true worth of the dwelling.

The wise home builder, therefore, is going to select an exterior plan that embodies good taste in lines, and one that will remain desirable over a long period of years.

Stood Test of Time

Certain types or styles of houses have stood the test of time. They have remained popular for many years and good judgment indicates that they will continue to be in the public favor for many years to come.

Among these types are the Colonial, the English, the Dutch Colonial, the American bungalow and the cottage. There are variations of these, of course, but these names are sufficient for this discussion.

These types are prominent and the home owner who chooses to build a home following one of these general designs will find out he has a home that he can always be proud to own.

English Home Popular

Of recent years the English type house has been steadily gaining in favor among the American people. This type is an adoption of the old time English house and contains the main characteristics of that design.

Chief among architectural features of the English house are the steep pitched roof with many gables, the high chimney pots, the use of half timbers in the upper walls with brick, stucco and building stone below, the outswinging casement windows with small glass lights and the rambling appearance that is often due to many additions.

The charm of the English house lies in its informality and simplicity. It is substantial rather than dignified. The windows are plentiful but are arranged with studied informality. Window areas and side wall masses balance effectively but not at the expense of the informal atmosphere here.

The low rambling appearance of the English house gives it a costly air, yet these houses many often be built at a cost that is on par with other types.

Designed for Service

Each of the various features of the English house was developed through a definite need. The sharply pitched roof, for instance, was needed because heavy snows falling on the roof must be removed by gravity. The English roof quickly sheds both snow and rain.

The rambling, sprawling out appearance of the original English houses was caused by additions being constructed from time to time. Rather than rebuild the house, the owners simply added on another wing when space was needed. Thus, the odd irregular lines of the present day English house.

The universal use of fireplaces for heating purposes in the old English houses has led to the use of numerous chimneys and chimney pots. While it is poor architecture to deliberately add chimneys that are not needed, those used on the present day English type of house of this country retain the typical Tudor design. The chimneys are usually tall.

Tall Timber Effect

The half timber effect is typically English and while found in certain other types of architecture is always associated with the English.

In the original construction the outer walls of the building were run up the ceiling point and above it usually was placed half timbers which was a system of framing with very large timbers, the spaces between being filled with lighter frame work and both in England and France in do-plaster. This system was much used in domestic architecture during the 16th and 17th centuries.

Today the half timbered work is a sham, the half timbered work consisting of ordinary framing of studs and sheathing with a thin pattern work of boards to represent timber applied thereto and the plaster is brought up against these boards.

The majority of the English houses are of plaster of stucco. However, the walls may be of brick, wood, stone or plaster. Often the material is mixed, field stones, for example, being interspersed among the walls of brick, giving a delightful informal effect.

Casement Windows

Before the days of Queen Elizabeth the heads of the casement windows found in the old English houses were arched or pointed, showing an ecclesiastical influence. After this time the square head came in and is now generally accepted as being the more desirable for this type of dwelling.

Casement windows are largely used, each ventilator leaf being made up of numerous small glass lights with narrow muntin bars.

Baseball Gossip

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.

Associated Press Sports Writer

Noted for their strong finishes, the New York Giants have climbed in the National League pennant race.

The Giants were a half game behind the second place Brooklyn Robins and only three games behind the league leading Chicago Cubs after Saturday's games. The Giants have won 22 out of 32 games in the last month.

They extended their straight winning streak to five games in the first half of yesterday's twin bill by pounding Wild Bill Hallahan of the Cards and three successors for 17 hits and a 12 to 4 victory. A seven run rally in the sixth settled the matter. Burell Grimes turned the tables in the second game and the Cards won 14 to 4.

Chicago and Brooklyn turned in single victories to gain a half game on the Giants and continue their race 2 1/2 games apart. The Cubs had difficulty with the humble Phillies but took advantage of their one opportunity, when Earl Colard developed a streak of wildness in the eighth. The Cubs then scored two runs to win, 5 to 4. The loss of Charlie Grimm, injured Saturday, did not prove serious as Lester Bell filled in with three hits in three times at bat and drove in two tallies.

The Robins defeated Pittsburgh 5 to 6.

The Boston Braves barely edged out a 4 to 3 victory in the first game with Cincinnati, then went 13 innings in the nightcap to win, 9 to 8, as 37 players, eleven of them pitchers, strove for a victory.

Washington's attempt to overhaul the Philadelphia Athletics in the American League pennant chase was halted yesterday when the Detroit Tigers staged an uprising to win by a 15 to 1 count.

Babe Ruth and Charley Ruffing gave the New York Yankees a ten inning victory over the Chicago White Sox, 8 to 7, in the first half of a double bill, but the Sox came back behind Red Faber's pitching to win, 6 to 1, in a second game which was stopped by rain after five innings. Ruth clouted his 44th home run in the seventh inning to tie the score, then made the winning run in the tenth on Ruffing's pinch single.

With the Athletics and St. Louis idle, Cleveland made the day's only important American League gain and remained in fourth place 9 1/2 games behind the Yankees. The Indians won both games from the Boston Red Sox by 9 to 3 and 2 to 0 counts.

Yankee Stars Lead
New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The New York Yankees are 10 1/2 games back of the Athletics in the American League pennant race, but they are well on their way to name a few of the individual leaders. Of the eight individual leaders, six wear New York uniforms. Lou Gehrig holds down the batting, the most hits and most runs batted in divisions while Babe Ruth has scored the most runs and pounded out the largest number of homers. Combs completes the Yankee domination, with the most triples leadership.

Woosung Won By Exciting Rally

Scoring two runs in the last half of the ninth inning, Woosung's baseball team came from behind to win thrilling contest from the Carroll County Farm Bureau nine at Woosung Sunday afternoon, by an 8 to 7 score.

Lester Brown, Toppert and Ned McGrath were the local stars who met the emergency by smashing out drives that produced the winning markers.

L. Brown and Nick McGrath turned in a nice job of hurling for Woosung.

LIPTON'S YACHT REACHES U. S.

Shamrock V Comes in Quest Of Famous Cup

A trim invader from overseas, Sir Thomas Lipton's slim green racing yacht, the Shamrock V—newest challenger for the America's Cup—is shown here as it dropped anchor at the mouth of the Thames River, at New London, Conn. At the left is the three-masted steam yacht Erin, which conveyed the racer across the Atlantic. The Shamrock, 81 feet long on the water line and of 135 tons, made the ocean passage of about 4000 miles in 23 days, without injury or mishap despite headwinds and two fierce gales, encountered in the crossing.

Independents Held Helpless By Block

The Dixon Independents were helpless before the pitching of "Check" Block, left handed ace of the Public Service Company's team at Rockford Sunday afternoon and collected but four hits during the afternoon. A triple by Skelton and a single by Condon in the seventh inning accounted for the lone Independent score of the day. Prestegard and Rusk collected the other hits.

Petty, the local hurler was hit hard, the opponents collecting 14 safeties, seven of which were for extra bases. Both teams played errorless ball. Block aside from allowing but four hits, fanned nine and passed two. Petty passed three and fanned three. Bob Hargraves accepted five chances in right field and threw out one runner going home from deep right field. Dixon had three double plays from Prestegard to McDonald to Rusk, while the opposing faction completed but one double. This makes it a victory apiece for the teams and a third and deciding game is being planned for the near future.

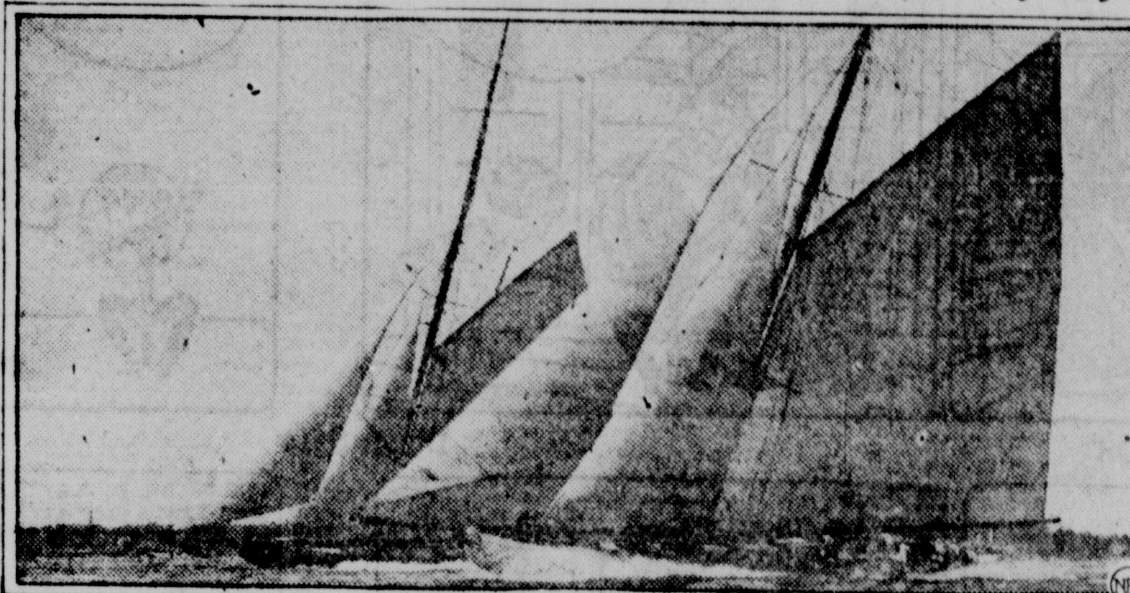

Phillie Batterymen Staged Fist Fight

Chicago, Aug. 18.—(U. P.)—That's more fight than is usually shown by players on an eight place club, even if it was misplaced, was the only comment made by Manager Burt Shotton of the Philadelphia National League ball team today, regarding the fist fight between pitcher Colard and his battery mate, Catcher Rensa, during Sunday's game with the Cubs. Colard and Rensa came to blows after the eighth inning of the game, during which Colard had been replaced by Elliott. The pitcher and his battery mate charged each other with responsibility for the Cubs' rally that netted two runs and won the game. They accused each other of crossing signals. Rensa claiming that Colard had failed to throw the balls called for.

Cub Reserves Keep Team In The Going

Chicago, Aug. — (A. P.)—Manager Jos. McCarthy, owner William Wrigley, Jr., and President William L. Veck are still giving thanks to the Cubs' reserve department. Lester Bell is the latest to jump into an emergency job and deliver. Bell who was obtained from the Braves with the idea of using him at third base, was hampered by a sore arm during the early part of the season and later found himself idle because Woody English, Clarence Blair and Doc Farren were paying so brilliantly. Bell was sent to first base yesterday to replace Charlie Grimm, who was spiked in the second game of Saturday's doubleheader with the Phillies. He did a good job of field-

Famous British Regatta Attended by Royalty

It was under the gaze of Britain's royalty that the finest sail-craft in England, raced during the historic Southampton Yacht Club regatta at Cowes. Above you see King George's "Britannia," and A. A. Paton's "Lulworth" competing in the race for big yachts. The lower picture shows King George and Queen Mary leaving their royal yacht after the races. The king, in uniform, is seen in the center foreground; the queen, in which, is walking in advance of him.

ing and produced three singles, two of which drove in runs in a 5 to 4 victory.

Danille Taylor, playing left for Riggs Stephenson, was the hero of the Cub final triumph in the final game of the Brooklyn series, hitting two doubles and a single, and accounting for three of the Cubs' four runs.

Kable Kolts Trim Browns On Sunday

The Kable Kolts from Mt. Morris defeated the Dixon Browns, Sunday afternoon in their game at the Pine Tree Inn diamond by a score of 5 to 3. The game was played on a heavy muddy field but was attended by a large gathering of fans. Both teams will meet on the same diamond next Sunday when the Browns will attempt to avenge the defeat of yesterday. McClintock pitched for the Browns, striking out 10 of the opposing batters and not permitting a single walk. McDonald did the catching. Jack pitched for the Kolts, struck out four and walked three of the Browns. Each pitcher was touched for eleven hits.

Rex Barnes, White Sox—Drove in three runs on three hits, one a home run, to give White Sox victory in second game of double header with Yankees.

Charley Ruffing, Yankees—Pinch hit in tenth drove in Babe Ruth with winning run in first game.

Vic Sorrell, Tigers—Broke Senators six-game winning streak.

Dazy Vance, Robins—Struck out nine Pirates and gave only eight scattered hits.

THE ROBOT SINGS OF LOVE

THE ROBOT (singing): "O, soul of my soul, I love thee—"

BUT the Robot has no soul. And having no soul it cannot love. Small wonder the lady spurns its suit.

Now, if the Robot cuts a ridiculous figure beneath a lady's balcony, why expect it to thrill intelligent theatre goers in the character of Canned Music?

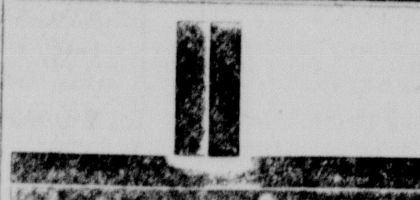

Music is an emotional art. By means of it feeling may be translated into all tongues. The Robot, having no capacity for feeling, cannot produce music in a true sense.

GALLANT FOX WILL CONTINUE DESPITE UPSET

Owner Is Still Hopeful Of Beating Zev's Mark For Earnings

Cup on the closing day at the Spa and then keep his engagements at Belmont Park in the Lawrence Realization and the Jockey Club Gold Cup.

Although turned back by a rank outsider in his campaign to go through the current season undefeated and pass Zev's money-winning record of $313,000, the big red son of Sir Gallahad III still stands a good chance of achieving the latter aim. Second in the Travers paid only $4,000 but it boosted the Fox's total earnings to $178,850. Each of his remaining engagements will have a value in excess of $25,000.

Gallant Fox came out of Saturday's stake sound and trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimons offered no alibi for his champion colt except to say that he evidently did not like the heavy going.

Harry Payne Whitney's Whichone, which finished third back of Jim Dandy and the Fox, probably has run his last race. The famous son of Chicla has a bowed tendon in his fore leg and as it is a low bow near the ankle, it is considered very serious. Contrary to early beliefs the injury has no relation to the quarter crack, which forced his temporary retirement following his defeat by Gallant Fox in the Belmont Stakes. There is no chance that Jim Dandy and the Fox will meet again at Saratoga, but there is a chance that the duel may be renewed in the Belmont Park fall feature.

MAY MATCH UPSET
Chicago, Aug. 18.—(A. P.)—A match race between the two biggest upset winners of the racing season—Reveille Boy and Jim Dandy may feature Hawthorne's fall meeting. John Schank, president of the Chicago Business Men's Racing Association, is negotiating for a race between the pair. Reveille Boy popped up to win the American Derby at Washington Park and paid $113.00 for $2, while Jim Dandy scored an even more stunning upset last Saturday in defeating Gallant Fox and Whichone in the Travers at Saratoga. N. Y., paying around 100 to 1.

LEADS HAWTHORNE JOCKEYS
Chicago, Aug. 18.—(A. P.)—Jockey Buddy Hanford brought in only two winners last week, but his total of eleven was good enough to lead the riders at Hawthorne. J. Maroun, who left the apprentice ranks last Thursday, was second with nine, while Corbett and Knight had seven each for third place.

It's Heave-Ho, Me Hearties

Boats climb waves, but they're out of place when it comes to climbing the Continental Divide of the Rocky Mountains. This one, 60 feet long and 12-foot beam, was built in Kalspell, Mont., and had to be hauled across the mountains, around horseshoe curves and up steep ascents, before it could be delivered to its owner on Lake McDonald in Glacier National Park. A special truck trailer had to be built for it.

RHEUMATISM PAIN NEEDLESS Relief in 7 to 10 minutes

PAIN KEPT HIM AWAKE AT NIGHT.

I have been suffering from rheumatism which has affected my hands and arms that pained me so much, I could not sleep at night. I saw your MUSCLETONE advertised in our paper and bought a bottle. After applying your preparation for several days I am very happy to tell you that I can sleep and rest in comfort. You may feel sure that I will recommend your MUSCLETONE to all.

C. E. SELLS

HAND USELESS FOR TWO YEARS —IS NOW WELL.

Your MUSCLETONE worked wonders with my left hand and two fingers. They have been useless for almost two years. I am very glad to recommend your remedy to everyone as it is surely all that you claim for it. I am now able to play my violin again and my left hand is not giving me any trouble. Your MUSCLETONE is being used by all the members of our family.

IRA MARCY
Chandlerville, Ill.

Do you honestly want complete and lasting relief from the pains of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica or neuralgia? Science has proven these troubles needless. A new way has been found to end muscular agony and distress so quickly that it seems almost miraculous. Pain actually stops in 7 to 10 minutes and may be forgotten. Chronic cases and those unusually severe will of course require continued treatment for a while. Yet often less than a single bottle is enough for complete relief even in most severe conditions of long standing.

We urge only that you make this test. MUSCLETONE is now obtainable at any good drug store. Buy it today. Use one-half the bottle and if you are not entirely satisfied, return the remaining half to the druggist and he will refund your money. The price is $1.00.

This new discovery is known as MUSCLETONE. It was found by Dr. Chapin, a famous physician of New York. Now almost a million people have used the MUSCLETONE treatment.

The amazing success of MUSCLETONE is due to the fact that it neutralizes accumulated toxins, absorbs them and relieves congested tissues. Pain goes. Joints become limber. Yet you take no violent drugs to upset the stomach. Nothing is taken internally. MUSCLETONE is applied directly to the part affected. It is bland and cool and soothing.

We urge only that you make this test. MUSCLETONE is now obtainable at any good drug store. Buy it today. Use one-half the bottle and if you are not entirely satisfied, return the remaining half to the druggist and he will refund your money. The price is $1.00.

The Hollywood Story

COPYRIGHT 1930

by NEA SERVICE Inc.

by ERNEST LYNN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAN RORIMER, temperamental young man of Hollywood, can't get along with the studio manager at Continental Pictures and tears up his contract as scenario writer and asks to be freed. But he isn't. Dan has become keenly interested in ANNE WINTER, a young girl from Tulsa, Okla., who is working as an extra. She has had stage experience, and she knows enough to warrant a screen test at Grand United studios.

Dan lives with PAUL COLLIER, who writes a daily movie column for a string of newspapers. Anne lives with TOMA MORRISON and EVA HARTLEY, two extra girls. GARRY SLOAN, famous Hollywood director, has shown some interest in Anne Winter. Dan does not care much for Sloan; he is an admirer, however, of MARTIN COLLINS, formerly of Continental, now with Amalgamated. Collins invites him to a housewarming at his home, and he brings Anne along.

There Dan meets a charming young actress named MARIS FARRELL, who takes a liking to him, and Anne meets and is annoyed by FREANK MAURY, a conceited character of the screen.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII
THE pool lay in the middle of the lawn in the rear, fringed by tall palms. And it was here that Anne and Collins found Dan Rorimer. He had drawn off to himself from the noisy group that was ranging the grounds, and he was standing with one hand thrust deep into a trousers pocket, while he smoked a cigarette and gazed at the sky.

Collins approached noiselessly, said, "What do the stars foretell?" in a deep bass, and Rorimer swung around half guiltily.

"This young lady," Collins said, taking Dan's arm, "has been looking all over for you. She asked me," he added, unheeded of Anne's laughing protest, "if I wouldn't take her by the hand and find you. Where's Maris?"

"Over there," Dan nodded his head toward the little stucco building that housed the dressing room. "She's picking out a bathing suit; said she wanted to get a green one."

Collins granted, "Maris," he said, "would be particular about the color. Think I'll go over and speak to her."

He wandered off, singing, leaving Anne and Rorimer alone.

Dan said, "Well, how do you like the party? Having a good time?" And Anne nodded, "Just perfect. I adore Mr. and Mrs. Collins, don't you?"

He grinned and shook his head, and told her that he was saving his admiration for somebody else. "But I like them fine. They're great guys—both of them. What do you feel like doing, Anne? Want to walk around a bit, or sit down and wish at the moon, or shall we dance? Gee, I haven't had a dance with you yet," he reminded her.

"Whose fault is that?" Anne asked, moving toward the brink of the pool.

"Not mine," Dan said, ranging beside her again and holding her arm. "Don't fall in, now; you'll spoil your dress." And he wanted to know how she could expect him to get a word in, with Maury forever at her heels. "I thought that guy never would let you go."

Anne sighed, "I thought so myself," she said. "Martin Collins saved me; I think he read the dress signals in my eyes. But you," she added, "didn't seem to be perishing on the vine exactly."

"Oh, you mean Maris Farrell?"

Anne Winter nodded, and said something about Maris Farrell, but Anne interrupted him. She had glanced toward the house and believed Frank Maury walking toward them with another man and a girl. She could hear Maury's voice; it was loud and slightly thick.

So she asked Dan to take her inside and dance, and Dan complied and started off with her.

But Maury had seen them. He detached himself from his companions and headed them off, and Dan saw that he stood erect with some difficulty.

Maury said, "Hi, Anne; where have you been? I've been lookin' everywhere. Let's you and I dance this dance."

He ignored Rorimer. Anne said she was sorry. "I've promised this one, Mr. Maury."

Maury was disposed to argue. He now looked at Dan for the first time, and he said, "Well, why don't you be big-hearted and give it to me?"

"You've no idea," Dan said, smiling, "how stony-hearted I am. You couldn't even buy it."

Maury regarded him rather stupidly for a moment and then he thrust a hand into the inside pocket of his dinner jacket, and Dan suspected he was about to pull out his billfold. So he said to Maury: "I think Martin Collins wants you. He's over at the dressing room, passing out bathing suits, and he's got a nice pink one picked out for you."

And then he took Anne away. Anne said, "You've made an enemy for life now, and all on my account. I think that was simply awful, what you told him." But she laughed at recollection of it. "That suits me fine," Rorimer said.

ANNE WINTER nodded, and said something about Maris Farrell, but Anne interrupted him. She had glanced toward the house and believed Frank Maury walking toward them with another man and a girl. She could hear Maury's voice; it was loud and slightly thick.

So she asked Dan to take her inside and dance, and Dan complied and started off with her.

But Maury had seen them. He detached himself from his companions and headed them off, and Dan saw that he stood erect with some difficulty.

Maury said, "Hi, Anne; where have you been? I've been lookin' everywhere. Let's you and I dance this dance."

She was small and lovely, and he thought her eyes surprisingly dark for such light hair.

They had one whole dance together, and part of another; but then someone cut in again. But Rorimer didn't mind now; the crowd was congenial; only Maury irritated him.

He lost Anne for a while then, and presently, finding himself without a partner, he wandered into the patio, where he found Anne listening to the earnest conversation of a small, gray-haired man whose name he could not remember.

HE waved carelessly and strolled away. Outside he almost ran into Maris Farrell and Frank Maury, standing on the lawn. He murmured an apology and started on, but Maris said something in a low voice that held him, and he stood still, feeling suddenly foolish that he should be put in the position of having to rescue two girls from Maury in less than an hour. And yet he thought there was something amusing, too, in the way the arrogantly handsome movie actor's charms were so lightly regarded by Anne, and now by Maris.

Maury looked at him with some hostility, but he said nothing; and Rorimer took no notice of him at all, but spoke to Maris.

FRENCH CABINET MEMBERS ENJOY SUMMER RECESS

Ministers Forget Cares of State to Pursue Favorite Hobbies, Pastimes

BY STEWART BROWN (United Press Staff Correspondent) PARIS —(UP)—Scattered like the leaves of autumn are the Ministers who direct the affairs of the French Government, and all State business is being transacted by able Under Secretaries.

When the French Parliament recesses over the summer until the end of October, practically every minister in the Cabinet leaves for the country to dabble with his favorite hobby, leaving vacation affairs to subordinates.

M. Andre Tardieu, Premier, is the one exception and he is only staying in Paris because book collecting is his greatest passion outside of politics. M. Tardieu is now busily engaged in arranging his tremendous library which numbers thousands of precious volumes collected over a period of 20 years. Two experienced librarians are assisting him in the task, making necessary by changes in his apartment to allow for needed expansion of his growing library.

After finishing this task, Tardieu plans to make a few short automobile excursions, probably into Normandy. He will not, as has been his custom in the past, take a cure at Vittel. Tardieu recently told friends that the may even have to cancel his auto trips if he cannot finish his library arrangements before Parliament starts again in October.

Peasemaker Aristide Briand is now a happy farmer at his fine agricultural estate at Cocherel, in Normandy. After he has tired of farming, Briand plans to do his yachting cap and go to Oestrehem, tiny Normandy seaport, where he keeps a trim sailing boat. He will spend several weeks sailing about the coast contemplating further suggestions for his United States of Europe before going to Geneva on September 10.

M. Jacques Louis Dumesnil, Minister of Marine, has forgotten the London Naval conference and the resumed Franco-Italian conversations and is peacefully enjoying his rich farming property in the department of the Seine and Marne. His farm is one of the richest in the department and Dumesnil is considered an excellent farmer.

His colleague in the War Department, Andre Maginot, is more inclined toward the fashion resorts and is therefore spending his summer between the great Deauville and the tiny but exclusive La-Baule. M. Maginot, a giant statured athlete, loves swimming and can be seen on the beach practically every day.

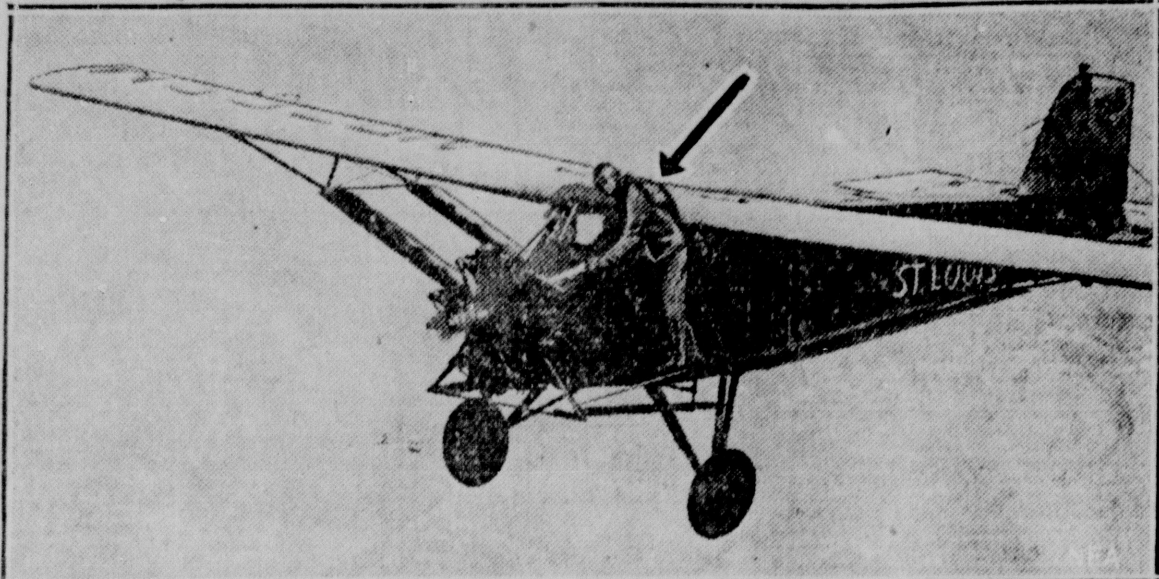

Repercussions throughout Europe following passage of the new American tariff bill have not prevented M. Pierre Etienne Flandin, Minister of Commerce, from enjoying a quiet holiday on his large family property along the Cure River. His estate is in one of the most picturesque sections of France.

A SWEET JOB Montrose, Colo. —(UP)—Firemen had a sweet time when they were called to the honey extraction plant of Charles Kendle. They extinguished the blaze with a loss of $1,000.

MRS. VERNON OLESMITH was one of the first women to captain a Mounted Girl Scout Troop, and was the recent recipient of a Harmon Award for outstanding leadership. When Mrs. Olesmith goes to Washington, D. C. next year, where her husband Major Olesmith will be stationed, she expects to introduce Mounted Troops there. The one she established at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, will continue under another Captain.

Set Endurance Record at 647 Hours

CAME DOWN SUNDAY

St. Louis, Aug. 18 — (AP)—Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine were back to earth today after completing the longest sustained flight in history. Conflicting versions of what brought the sturdy monoplane, Greater St. Louis, back to ground were given by the fliers and their manager.

The pilots said they landed because of a fa break in the crankcase of the motor.

Williams Pickens, manager of Jackson and O'Brine, said they landed because of lack of financial returns.

The greater St. Louis touched ground at Lambert-St. Louis field at 6:39:30 A. M. (CST) yesterday after having spent 647 hours, 28 minutes and 30 seconds cruising over the field. They lacked but 31½ minutes of having been aloft 27 days. Their new record exceeds that of John and Kenneth Hunter by 93 hours and 47 minutes, but lacks 352 hours, 31 minutes and 30 seconds of the fliers' goal of 1000.

The end of the flight, the only come-back endurance flight on record, was abrupt and unexpected. Between 2 and 3 A. M. mechanics heard the first break in the smooth song of the motor.

"She's missing," they said. Crankcase Broken From then on until dawn the missing kept up and at 6:15 A. M. the fliers radioed that the crankcase was broken, two cylinders were missing and oil was spraying over the ship. Before a special police detail could arrive, the plane began sweeping in wide circles and at 6:39:30 the record-breaking craft touched ground in a perfect three-point landing.

Only about 300 persons witnessed the landing. In July, 1929, when O'Brine and Jackson landed with a new record of 420 hours, thousands were at the field. A year ago the fliers were borne like conquering heroes through streets lined with cheering admirers. Yesterday there was only an occasional cheer.

At the hotel where the airmen were taken, Pickens told reporters the fliers landed because "they have been saps not to. Jackson and O'Brine did not owe St. Louis anything. There was nothing to gain by continued flying. Why spend money keeping aloft?" "Finances had nothing to do with it," both fliers said. "We would have paid for supplies to continue the flight ourselves had the motor continued to function."

Cost of the flight, exclusive of in-vestment in planes and equipment, was about $1000 a week. The fliers earned $8500 and have contracts to appear at state fairs which will net them $30,500, making a total of $39,000 to be divided between them with a percentage for Pickens.

In addition, they have prospects for getting more contracts. They will appear at the Missouri State Fair Saturday under a $7500 contract. Other state fair appearances are scheduled in Illinois, Iowa, Ohio and Indiana State.

A fair like the Lee County fair is not to be classed with the general run of road shows and circuses. It is deserving of the support of all Lee County residents because it performs a service in the interest of agriculture and our rural communities. It affords a common ground for Lee County to exhibit her agricultural wares. It assists in the development of better live stock breeding. It gives farm boys the opportunity to share in the pride and reward of good stock raising. It affords school boys and girls the opportunity for competitive educational exhibits. It is an agricultural up-lift. In 20 years, the Lee County fair has paid out more than $150,000 in agricultural premiums. What other annual Lee County event has returned as much as that to the farmer. The Lee County fair is deserving of your support and interest and its officers ask that you be one of its good boosters this year as in years past. AS USUAL — THE BEST COUNTY FAIR IN THE STATE J. W.
